PIONEER WASHER.
E. G. BOLTER,
AGENT FOR OREGON AND WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

THIS CELEBRATED WASHING MACHINE IS now for the first time introduced to the Oregon public. It is unrivalled for its simplicity, durability and the rapidity and ease of its action. Washing the dirtiest clothes perfectly clean in from five to ten minutes, with but slight labor, and lasting, with proper care, for ten years. The wear and tear of clothing in washing by this machine is vastly less than by any other known process of washing. It does its work by a reverse motion in forcing the water through the clothes.

It having a tight cover, the steam thus assists materially in cleansing the clothes, and also avoids the inhaling of steam from hot suds.

This Machine captured the Special Premium at the California State Fair, and all that have used it pronounce it an invaluable adjunct to all housekeepers and families and washing men and washing women.

It has been extensively introduced throughout the State of California, and receives the universal commendation of all who have used it.

THE COUNTY RIGHTS, now unsold, will be sold at a bargain if applied for soon

STEAMER
U. S. GRANT,
Will make Two Trips per Week to the CITY OF ASTORIA!
Carrying Passengers at $10, the Round Trip, (Meals Included.)

The Boat leaves Portland Wednesdays and Saturdays at 7½ A. M. Returning leaves Astoria Thursdays and Mondays at 6 o'clock A. M.

Every person purchasing a Passenger Ticket will be presented with one of 900 Prize Tickets, to be drawn on the 1ST DAY OF AUGUST, 1867, for the following Prizes:
Steamer U. S. GRANT, to be divided into 4 shares.
ONE BLOCK OF LOTS IN EAST PORTLAND, divided into 6 shares, or one lot to the share, viz: Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, Block 17, opposite the "New Columbian" Hotel, and at the terminus of the proposed Suspension Bridge.
ONE GOLD WATCH, worth $100;
150 CORDS DRY FIR WOOD, in 8 shares, to be placed on the Brooklyn Wharf.

The steamer is 54 tons burthen, 32 horse-power engine, propeller wheel, draft of water 5 feet. She is being thoroughly refitted and refurnished as a Passenger Boat. The Boat will be delivered in perfect order, free from all incumbrance, and Warranty Deeds made for the real estate, to the persons drawing the same. Tickets can be had of C. P. FERRY, in Portland, where the money will be left on deposit till the prizes are drawn and delivered.

Any person having a claim against me, and wishing a ticket, can get an order for one by calling on me on board the boat. The person drawing the gold watch can have $100 in gold coin, if preferred.

C. P. FERRY, Banker. J. LADD, ex-Sheriff, AL. ZEIBER, U. S. Marshal, and C. S. SILVER, Merchant, of Portland, are the Committee and Judges to direct the Drawing of Prizes. The Prizes will be drawn before the 1st of August, if all the tickets are taken before that time.

The above liberal offer is made to the traveling public to enable the subscriber to pay his debts, and not with any reference to speculation, as all the property is valued at much less than its cost, (the Steamer alone having cost $11,000), and the price for carrying passengers to Astoria being much less than the usual fare.
Portland May 21, 1867. d2m J. W. KERN.

Notice.
OWING TO THE STEAMER U. S. GRANT having lost several regular trips, she will continue to run for a few weeks, to give all ticket holders an opportunity to travel. The tickets stand good for a passage as long as the boat continues to run. A few more tickets yet to be disposed of.

The Market and Supply of Grain.

[From the Sacramento Union.]

Reports received in New York City for the fortnight ending September 20th did not represent the grain and corn crop of the Western States very favorably. In Illinois, Kentucky and Ohio, drouth had seriously injured the corn. The crop in Illinois it was thought would not exceed a third of an average one. The yield of wheat in the most productive districts of Wisconsin and Northern Illinois is estimated at but twelve bushels per acre, which is about twenty per cent. short of the average. At the five principal shipping ports on the lakes—Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit, Buffalo and Cleveland there is a falling off of receipts of wheat, corn, oats, barley and rye, from January 1st to September 1, 1867, as compared with the corresponding months of last year, of twelve million bushels. In the South the corn crop promises to be as good as usual generally, but on the sea coast of the Carolinas and Georgia it had been seriously injured by heavy rains in July and August. The Middle States will have no surplus of cereals. The falling off of receipts at the lake ports is in same measure accounted for by the large demands created for breadstuffs and feed in the Indian departments of the Plains, on the several lines of the Pacific Railroad and in the Territories of Montana, Colorado and Dakota, which have drawn supplies from the Western States for nearly a quarter of a million extravagant consumers. The West is rapidly creating its own market for the agricultural surplus which has hitherto sought a market in the cities of the Atlantic seaboard and Europe. The explanations account in part for the present high rates in flour and wheat in New York, and consequently in San Francisco. There are other causes likely to send figures still higher. The cereal crops of Europe this year are short, especially in France and Spain, and should war break out there upon the Eastern question, which is from present appearances not improbable, it would shut out the entire wheat supply of Russia, on which England, France and the Mediterranean region usually depend for a deficiency in breadstuffs. The French Government is reported to be accumulating large depots of grain, as if in apprehension of such a war, and French speculators give force to this suspicion by making unprecedented investments in the same direction.

Whilst we would hesitate to advise California farmers to store their crops for better prices when wheat already commands a dollar and thirty-five cents per bushel, we nevertheless think, from prevailing indications, that there is not much danger of a fall in prices during the next eight months, and some hope of a considerable rise, even without reckoning upon a European war.

It was once the popular belief that the vast region known as the "Great West" was to become the future granary of the world, and that competition by the farmers of the Pacific coast was out of the question. The last two years have changed this opinion. We know now that an acre in grain here costs little more from plowing to harvesting, than an acre in Iowa or Illinois, and yields twice or thrice as many bushels, which cost no more for transportation to the absorbing markets of the world than an equal amount of tonnage shipped from Rock river or the Desmoines would cost. Farming here has been abundantly demonstrated to be more profitable than in any of the Western States; and it is not likely that the market will be much lower than it now is for many years to come, because of the greater increase of population in the cities than in the rural districts all over the world. It is strange, indeed, that so many millions of acres of first-rate grain lands are lying idle in this State, and attracting scarcely any attention from the European emigrants seeking permanent homes in the New World.

This closing remark is equally applicable to our own State. The Willamette valley alone has a capacity to produce more grain than is grown at the present time on the entire Pacific coast. The amount of wheat now produced in this valley might easily be increased twenty fold; all we want are hands to till the soil.

The President's Coup d'Etat.

A Washington dispatch to the New York Tribune, September 14th, says:

For several days past, men here who enjoy the reputation of being confidential advisers of the President, have been giving out that Johnson has said that he would remain, quiet until after the fall elections. The following, however, which is from the Washington correspondence of a Charleston paper of the 12th inst., is significant, for the reason that its author is a writer for the President's organ here, and a warm friend of the President. He is an old Democratic politician and a secessionist, who, when Buchanan ruled at the White House, was honored with being called in to consult and advise at the Cabinet meetings. Here is what he says:

The President is expected to act upon his new line of operations in the course of a week, before he leaves for the Antietam Monument celebration. He is to issue the amnesty proclamation, eject Mr. Seward from the Cabinet, and invite Postmaster-General Randall to resign. It is also asserted that another proclamation, following up that of September 3d, about civil supremacy, will be issued, applying the principles therein asserted to some very important subjects. That proclamation asserts the Executive power in the broadest terms, and next we are to know what the President will do with it. Of course it did not require all this parade of constitutional prerogative for the mere purpose of censuring General Sickles for alleged hindrance of a process from the United States Circuit Court of North Carolina. The President has been often advised and urged by the peace Democrats (Copperheads) to perform some grand coup d'etat, by which the people would be at once awe-struck and delighted, and thus save himself from the disgrace of causeless impeachment and removal, without resistance. It was even suggested that he would disperse this Fortieth Congress last July, but he was not then up to the mark. There was no stuff in the whole Cabinet for any energetic movement. Beside the President does not always act upon the theories which he adopts. He may, however, if properly supported by those around him, announce in a proclamation, at an early day, or before the meeting of Congress, that it is his constitutional right and duty to see that the Constitution, as the supreme law of the land, shall be preserved inviolate and that as the acts of Congress are unconstitutional they are null and void, and shall not be further executed. An issue will thus be made between the President, who stands on the Constitution, and the Rump Congress, which body is "hanging on the verge" of the Constitution, and claims, in fact, to act outside of the Constitution. The President must of course have as an advisor and advocate a bold, strong man, before he can thus set Congress at defiance. Mr. Seward would oppose his new position, but Judge Black is quite ready to support it with the utmost ardor and ability. The State department will be offered to Judge Black, and he will accept it with the utmost confidence in the justice and also of the success of his views. If Judge Black's advice is really adopted and acted upon, it may be that the President, in some crises of the consequent struggle with Congress, will become impatient or hesitate, and that the Judge will have occasion to repeat the exclamation imputed to Stafford, when he found that Charles had deserted him. In connection with this it may be stated that Johnson men here assert that he has resolved upon sending to Congress, on the day they assemble, a message, the purport of which will be his late proclamation of civil supremacy. Every Government official throughout the country is being supplied with a copy of this proclamation, and Johnson intends making a final thing of it by getting it to Congress in official form.

For years it has been known that valuable pearls might be found in the muscle shells of the Miami river, which, at times, has been the cause of considerable excitement. Recently, says the Cincinnati

Taxing Government Securities.

Upon no subject connected with our politics is there more confusion in the public mind respecting the true policy and powers of the Government, than in regard to exemption from State taxation of the securities of the United States. A portion of the Democratic press deal with the subject ignorantly; the remainder deal with it dishonestly, and all alike use it adroitly for partisan purposes. It is plausibly argued that there is a great hardship in exempting so large an amount of property from State and municipal taxation—in exempting United States securities from a burden which all other property is obliged to bear. This statement of the case is invariably followed by vehement denunciations of the Republican party for the existence of this unequal state of things. First, it is declared that United States stocks ought to be taxed and that it is rank injustice that they are not subjected to taxation; and next, an attempt is made to fix upon the Republican party the responsibility for their exemption. In these two statements there is an equal amount of error. The first rests upon an entirely mistaken view of the powers of the Government as derived from the Constitution and expounded by our highest judicial tribunal; and the last, being only a corollary from this error, must of course fall with the mistaken proposition from which it is derived. It is our purpose to cite authorities to expose this radical error. We shall show by these authorities that the bonds of the United States, cannot, consistently with the Constitution, be taxed by any State or corporation; that attempts have been repeatedly made during the last fifty years to subject them to such taxation but in every case without success; that the taxation of United States bonds by any State is clearly an interference by such State with the rightful powers of the General Government and therefore cannot be permitted; that the right of the Government of the Union to issue bonds is a right which it possesses under the provision of the Constitution which gives it the power to borrow money on the credit of the United States, and that the State governments cannot tax the securities of the United States because they cannot tax any of the constitutional means employed by the Government of the Union to execute its constitutional powers. We shall show by the authorities that the Constitution itself exempts the bonds from taxation; we shall show that the Republican party is in no way responsible for the alleged inequality of taxation so loudly complained of, but that in maintaining that the bonds cannot be taxed, it is simply adhering to the law as expounded by the Supreme Court in a series of decisions extending through a period of half a century. To establish these facts the materials are ample. The whole subject has been discussed exhaustively by the ablest jurists the country has produced, and their conclusions have invariably been the same. No one who investigates the subject can find room in his mind for a single remaining doubt in regard to the policy of exempting bonds from State taxation; nor will such person, if honest in his purposes, ever afterwards assert the right or the power of the State governments to tax them. They can never be taxed unless the Constitution is specially amended so as to allow it. A political party is now making the taxation of bonds an issue in elections. If they carry elections on this issue they cannot secure the result they are aiming at. State courts may hold that United States bonds are taxable, but the Supreme Court of the United States will reverse every such decision in future as it has done heretofore. Democratic judges have uniformly held the same views on the subject as those held by Judges identified with other political parties, and one of the last acts of Chief Justice Taney while he was to pronounce a decision on this very question declaring anew the old and well-settled principles of the law. It will therefore appear from an examination of the subject that the Republican party has not exempted bonds from taxation—they are exempted by the Constitution of the United States. With or without the law exempting them they are alike untaxable. The act of Congress providing that they should not be subjected to State or municipal taxation only declared an already well settled principle of law. The object was not to add force to an established law, for nothing of the kind was necessary, but simply to give more general notice of what the law was, so that Government securities might be more readily taken.

In the States of the Union, national banks, established under the laws of Congress, are now in operation. These banks are founded upon deposits of United States bonds at Washington. Now suppose the banks or their issues should be taxed by State law—what would be the result? The banking system would either be crippled or wholly destroyed. In ship the question as to the right of the State of Maryland to tax a branch of the national bank located in Baltimore, was considered by the Supreme Court of the United States. Mr. Webster, one of the counsel in the case said: "If States may tax the bank, where shall they stop? If they may tax they have no limit but their discretion; and the bank therefore, must depend on the discretion of the State governments for its existence. This is either an attempt to expel the bank from the State, or it is an attempt to raise a revenue for State purposes by an imposition on property and franchises holden under the national government and created by that government for purposes connected with its own administration. It is essential to the existence and preservation of the government that Congress should be able to exercise its constitutional powers at its own discretion without being subject to the control of State legislation. To hold otherwise would be to declare that Congress can only exercise powers subject to the controlling discretion and under the sufferance of the State governments." These are the general principles of the law on the subject. The Maryland case was examined in all its bearings by that first of jurists, Chief Justice Marshall, whose opinion thereon is one of the most luminous expositions ever given of the respective powers of the States and the Government of the Union in regard to these questions. We shall begin our citations from the decisions of the Supreme Court on this subject by presenting a summary of this decision.

We wanted to know just what Democratic principles are at the present time, and inquired if they were still identical with the principles held by Buchanan and embodied in the resolutions of '98. The Herald pretends to answer, but only eludes the question. It attempts to show that Democratic principles are something different from our statement of them, and thus virtually repudiates the Kentucky resolutions and the principles of "Democracy" as expounded by Buchanan. It complains that attempts are made to fasten on the party the "declarations of irresponsible persons" as its true record. Does it mean to intimate that the resolutions of '98 and the messages of Buchanan are the "declarations of irresponsible persons?" As the Herald has put itself forward in this matter, will it answer without equivocation whether those resolutions and the official declarations of Buchanan while he was President are still the principles of Democracy?

Copper ore is shipped from Musselshell district, Montana, to New York. The cost of transportation is $35 per ton, and the ore which assays fifty per cent. in copper, is said to be worth $250 per ton when delivered.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO OCTOBER 15.

Ohio Affairs.

CINCINNATI, Oct 13.—The Democrats had a meeting yesterday at Hamilton Butler County, and nominated Valandingham for Senator. He responded in a vigorous speech expressing his determination to run, confident in the belief that he will be elected.

A terrible affair occurred in Camden, Stark County this afternoon while the congregation of the Dutch Reformed Church were assembling. Frederick Hoffman just released from the Penitentiary attacked his divorced wife because she refused to live him and stabbed her twenty times with a large butcher knife. The monster was finally captured after a desperate resistance, and lodged in jail. It is believed that the jail will be forced upon tonight and Hoffman hung. The poor woman cannot survive.

Virginia Politics.

NEW YORK, Oct 14.—The Heralds' Richmond special says there is a split in the Republican party. The result of which has been the nomination of two Republican tickets for the Convention. Perhaps there will also be a split in the Democratic tickets.

Pennsylvania Legislature Republican.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14.—The Post gives these figures on the Legislature: House Republicans 54, Democrats 46. Senate Republicans 20, Democrats 13.

Political Intelligence.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—The Republican's special says that Congressman Boutwell has determined to prosecute impeachment to the end. Other members of the impeachment committee express the same sentiments.

Leading Republicans declare their purpose to adhere to the reconstruction policy of Congress.

The Times' special says several influential Democrats here are urging the President to place his administration more direct accord with the Democrats, who alone sustain him. They suggest an almost entire change of his cabinet. While Johnson listens to these propositions, he gives no positive assurance that any changes will be made except in the war department, though he may yield to the pressure and relieve three or four members before the meeting of Congress.

Advices from Gen. Mower state that the Convention in Louisiana has been called by ten thousand majority.

Some cabinet makers of influence are circulating a slip asserting that the Cabinet will be changed on November 8th. That Reverdy Johnson will be Secretary of State, Erastus Corning, Secretary of the Treasury; Wm. S. Groesbeck of Ohio, Postmaster General; Frank Blair, Secretary of War; John Quincy Adams, Secretary of the Navy; and that Browning and Stanbury will remain.

The President has summoned all the District Commanders to Washington. Schofield has been and gone. Gens. Pope and Ord are expected. These orders were not sent through Grant as required by law.

The Sentinel Journals are unanimous in the opinion that the reconstruction policy of Congress will be modified in consequence of the late elections, and negro suffrage left out.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Thad. Stevens declares his intention to introduce a bill into Congress, defining impeachable offences, and declaring that no officer, when impeachable, exercises power during his trial. Also, one under the authority of the Constitution, and upon the principles of the Declaration of Independence that no State shall have power to prohibit citizens of the United States of whatever race, color, or religion, from voting for President or members of Congress. Leading Republicans affirm that Congress will sustain Stevens.

The question of the appointment of a permanent Secretary of War has been discussed in the Cabinet. Grant strongly urges Gen. Dawlings, his Chief of Staff, for the position. He will probably receive the appointment.

Sheridan has been granted two months' leave of absence.

The steamship Idaho sails for New York and Japan on the 18th.

Johnson Delivers an Opinion.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—The Times' special, detailsan interview with the President. The latter said the reports of Cabinet changes, especially naming certain members for certain places were wholly unauthorized and untrue. He did not include the War Department, as he regarded that office as virtually vacant. He said that he did not intend to make changes in haste, but would act with careful deliberation for the best interests of the country. There had been tremendous pressure for a change. Delegations, letters and telegrams urged him to remove all his Cabinet but Wales and Stanbury.

He said the elections did not surprise him. Ohio has retaked two extremes by defeating Thurman and Wade. Negro suffrage was the only national issue and it was defeated by 57,000. This he regards as repudiation of Congressional policy of reconstruction. He hoped the lesson would be followed everywhere and that people would avoid dangerous extremes. Both parties should look only to the welfare of the country.

Impeachment.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The Times' says a leading radical Congressman from Massachusetts and a strong advocate of impeachment, has announced himself in favor of Gen. Grant for the Presidency.

The question of Vice President is also being discussed. The name of John A. Andrew is mentioned.

Assistant Postmaster General Bliss is dangerously ill. He has been connected with the Post Office Department for fifty consecutive years.

From the Plains.

CHICAGO, Oct 15.—Dispatches from Fort Larned announces the arrival of the Indian Commissioners, who proceed directly to Medicine Lodge Creek.

By late advices from Montana Captain Hughes and two companies of mounted militia have turned highwaymen and are committing depredations on the road between Montana and Colorado, and one thousand dollars is offered as a reward for the capture of Hughes.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The continued devastations of the Garibaldiitists to invade Roman territory causes much excitement uneasiness here and in Paris.

Miscellaneous.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—A fatal case of cholera occurred in Detroit yesterday.

CAPE MAY (N.J.), Oct. 14.—The fishing vessel New Brunswick was lost on the coast on Monday. Her crew, numbering seventeen men, were drowned. Nine of the men leave families.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Private cable dispatches report the failure of N. Bailie, Campbell & Son, cotton dealers in Liverpool. Their liabilities are estimated at $2,000,000 in gold. It is stated that there is an utter want of confidence in the credit of Liverpool firms here.

The $79,000 of spurious seven-thirties have been taken by the Assistant Treasurer to the bankers from whom he purchased them. They refused to receive them and intend to test the matter in the courts.

McCoole and Joe Coburn agree to fight for the championship and $10,000.

The Commercial says a combination of capitalists recently appropriated one million dollars, to be used as margins in the purchase of cotton. The whole of these margins are now wiped out.

The Revenue officers made another raid on illicit whisky stills in Philadelphia, to-day. The distillers were warned in some way and most of the stills were removed. A quantity of mash was seized. Large crowds of women and children were armed. No disturbance occurred.

The marble staging of the new Baptist church fell today, precipitating seven men on the rocks below. One was killed and all were seriously injured. It is feared three were fatally hurt.

McCulloch denies the truth of the statement that the metropolitan board of excise is to be relieved.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, Oct 15.—Much fault is found with the selection of Edward Thornton as Minister to Washington. The general opinion is that only a diplomatist of the highest rank should succeed Sir Frederick Bruce.

L. E. Ruttle has suspended payment.

DUBLIN, Oct. 15.—There are apprehensions of another Fenian landing should all the war vessels be withdrawn to the southern and eastern coast of Ireland, except one or two ironclads.

FLORENCE, Oct. 13.—Garibaldi has appointed his son Menotti General-in-Chief of the revolutionary forces. It is said that the Bands of the Tiber have been driven over the frontier by the national troops.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—The trial of Guiptille for murder on the high seas, was concluded to-day. The jury found him guilty of manslaughter.

P. Donohoe and Ann Schultz were arrested this afternoon on a charge of having committed an infamous outrage on the person of a girl named Mary Murray. Ann Schultz is complained of as accessory to the offence.

A Young man named Joe Goodwin, the son of respectable people, who resides in this city, is under arrest for obtaining goods under false pretences. He has, from some unaccountable motive, chosen a career of crime, this being the third or fourth time he has been under arrest. All the efforts of his parents and friends to reclaim, him, have proved fruitless.

Juan Morales, the Chilean, who was shot by a woman yesterday, rallied soon after getting on board the steamer Costa, and was taken to his friends at Alviso. The surgeon probed the wound to the depth of four inches, but thought the ball must have glanced from any vital portion of the man's body, and thus left him a chance to recover.

All the public schools in the city will be closed to-morrow on account of the election.

A fire broke out to-day in the Tehama flouring mills at Tehama, and destroyed them. The mills were in operation at the time, and it is supposed that the fire originated in a foul elevator. The establishment was a large one, and cost $42,000. About 200 barrels of flour and 1,500 sacks of wheat were destroyed. The present owners are O. and B McCreary of Sacramento.

The case of Andrew Johnson vs the Central Railroad Company, to recover $10,750 damages, is on trial to-day.

Monetary.

Private telegrams quote gold in New York, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, at 143¾ and sterling at 109¾.

California wheat stood at $3 20.

Legal tenders, 70—70¾.

Produce Market.

Flour—Market very firm. Superfine bf sks, $6 75@ $7 00; qr sks, $7@7 25. Extra bf sk, $7 50@7 75, qr sks, $7 75@8 00.

Wheat. A cable telegram was received in this city at 10 o'clock this morning quoting white California in Liverpool at 11s, an advance of 1s 9d. Red was quoted at 14s 10d. This news spread with great rapidity among the grain dealers, adding intensity to the excitement with which the market has been characterized for several days past. It is quite possible that there may be some mistake about the above telegram and that it should be 10s instead of 11s. The effect on the market is, however, about the same as if no such possible contingency existed. Offers for several round lots were pending at noon to-day, one lot being 10,000 sks coast at $2 50. Holders are asking $2 75@3 00, though there have been heard of no sales above $2 75. At the close, 800 sks inferior, $2 32½; 1,800 do in two lots, $2 45; 900 sks good coast, $2 50; 5,400 sks choice in two lots, $2 60. The nominal rates from good to choice are $2 50@2 75. The Liverpool telegram above referred to has been repeated and the figures confirmed, namely 11s for California white and 14s 10d for Milwaukie red.

Barley—There is but little doing. Prices are without change, say $1 70@1 75 for feed and brewing, and $1 90@1 95 for choice old brewing.

Oats—Market quiet at $1 65@1 85.

Wheat—Morning sales of 1,000 sacks of good milling at $2 50; 800 sks, good coast, $2 55; 20,000 sks, good shipping, private terms, an extreme price. Afternoon sales of 2,400 sks, fair milling at $2 60; 1,000 sks, ordinary to fair, $2 40@$2 50; 1,500 sks inferior, $2 20; 8,000 sks good shipping, private; 200 do. smutty, $2 35.

California flour is quoted in New York at $13 75, which is perhaps an error, as the price of wheat remains unchanged.

Shipping.

Arrived—Bark S. C. Murray, 21 days from Honolulu; ship Herald of the Morning, 124 days from New York.

STATE ITEMS.

The assessment in Linn county for the present year is $2 000,226.

The assessed value of property in Albany, foots up about $600,000.

The Press reports ten inches of snow in the Blue mountains last week.

There is a report that one of the flour mills of Walla Walla is to be removed to Umatilla.

The amount of taxable property in Jackson county is $1,890,870, a decrease of $61,473 since last year.

The Umatilla paper says: Our friend McBride showed us on Wednesday twenty-five ounces of Columbia river gold—the result of one week's work, with seven men. His claim is situated about twelve miles below town.

The Treasurer of the State Agricultural Society states that the total receipts of the late State Fair amount to $7,188, against $7,079 last year. This makes a better showing than was anticipated on the first days of the fair.

The Albany Journal learns that the family of the Rev. Robert Robe, who resides near Brownsville, is now undergoing the severest domestic affliction. On Monday last, the second oldest daughter, an interesting girl of ten years, died of diptheria, and three others of the children are now lying with the same disease, two of whom are expected not to recover.

The Salem Chronicle of Monday says: On Saturday morning at about 4 o'clock, a robber entered the restaurant on Commercial street kept by Charley and Dick and proceeded to open a valise, in doing which one of the proprietors was awakened who raised up in bed and called out, "who's there?" A revolver was placed in close proximity to his face when Mr proprietor suddenly ceased to be anxious as to what was going on. The robber took a watch and $13 in money and departed. During the day a man giving his name as John Latham, of Albany, was arrested, supposed to be the robber. He is securely locked up.

The Record says: Mr. John Daly, who has been engaged all summer at Ashland, Jackson county, erecting the mills for the Rogue River Valley Woolen Manufacturing Company, informs us that the building is up and enclosed, and very nearly in readiness for the machinery. The factory is three stories high; fifty-four feet wide, by seventy-seven and a half long, and will accommodate two sets of machinery. The water power is calculated to carry that machinery. A Leffel & Myers turbine water wheel will be used, which is already on the ground. The machinery is ordered and will probably be there early in the spring, and the mill will probably commence operations as soon as the clip for 1868 is fit for use. Mr. Daly expects to return and superintend the erection of the machinery when it arrives. It will be one of the best mills on the coast.

The Columbia Press has the following: The new steamer Lewiston left here on Tuesday for a trial trip up the river. She came over to this side of the river on Monday afternoon, and quite a rush for the wharf boat took place when she first "tooted" her whistle. Capt. Perrin brought her alongside the wharf in a skillful manner, and we have no doubt but what she is in careful hands. She is a staunch looking little craft, and when completed will, we think, look as handsome as she now looks strong. She started up and ran very nicely with 60 pounds of steam—her allowance being 115. Captain Perrin took his boat to Wallula, but having no pilot for Snake river, rescinded that stream but a few miles. He then proceeded to the Yakima, going over a great many strong rapids without the least difficulty. The Lewiston returned here on Friday morning, having two scows, loaded with hay, in tow. She will leave for Lewiston on Wednesday next.

Meagher's Apostrophe to the Sword.

The numerous allusions that have recently been made to the lamented Meagher's celebrated "Apostrophe to the Sword"—delivered at Conciliation Hall, Dublin, on the occasion of the debate on the "Peace Resolutions" introduced by O'Connell—has caused a very general desire to read that magnificent piece of oratory. "In lyrical grandeur and useful suggestiveness, it far surpasses the 'Sword Song' which gives Koerner's name honorable distinction. Here it is:

"The soldier is proof against an argument—but he is not proof against a bullet. The man that will listen to reason—let him be reasoned with. But it is the weaponed arm of the patriot that can alone prevail against battalioned despotism.

Then, my lord, I do not condemn the use of arms as immoral, nor do I conceive it profane to say that the King of Heaven—the Lord of Hosts! the God of Battles!—bestows his benediction upon those who unsheath the sword in the hour of a nation's peril.

From that evening on which, in the valley of Bethulia, he nerved the arm of the Jewish girl to smite the drunken tyrant in his tent, down to this our day, in which he has blessed the insurgent chivalry of the Belgian priest, His Almighty hand hath ever been stretched forth from His throne of Light to consecrate the flag of freedom—to bless the patriot's sword! Be it in defense, or be it in the assertion of a people's liberty, I hail the sword as a sacred weapon: and if, my lord, it has sometimes taken the shape of the serpent, and reddened the shroud of the oppressor with too deep a dye, like the annointed rod of the High Priest, it has at other times, and as often, blossomed into celestial flowers to deck the freeman's brow.

Abhor the sword—stigmatize the sword? No, my lord, for in the passes in the Tyrol it cut to pieces the banner of the Bavarian, and, through those cragged passes, struck a path to fame for the peasant insurrectionist of Inspruck.

Abhor the sword—stigmatise the sword! No, my lord, for at its blow a gigant nation started from the waters of the Atlantic and by its redeeming magic, and in the quivering of its crimson light the cripplal colony sprang into the attitude of a proud Republic—prosperous, limitless and invincible!

Abhor the sword—stigmatize the sword? No, my lord, for it swept the Dutch marauders out of the fine old towns of Belgium—scourged them back to their own phlegmatic swamps—and knocked their flag and scepter, their laws and bayonets into the sluggish waters of the Scheldt."

WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY—MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.—The second course of Lectures in the Medical Department of Willamette University will commence on the 4th of November. The course will embrace a period of four months. It is the intention to make the course of instruction thorough and complete, and to accomplish this, abundant means of illustration in each department have been secured. The Faculty is composed of men of ability and learning, and consists of nine professors. This department is in a prosperous condition, and a full attendance of students is expected for the coming term. The names of twenty students appear in the catalogue for the present year.

MR. GEORGE MCCLELLAN, an intensely Black Republican, keeps a hotel at Gettysburg, and is frequently mistaken by English tourists for the hero of the Chickahominy. One of them wrote back London that "the ingratitude of the Republic has doomed its chieftain to keep a village tavern on the very field of his fame.

A very sentimental poet, seeing the gambols of an ass-foal in the field, vowed that he should like to send the little thing as a present to his dearest Matilda. "Do," replied one of his companions, "and tie a piece of paper around its neck, bearing the motto: 'When this you see, remember me.'"

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF IDAHO—BOISE CITY, I. T.—Organized March 11th, 1867, (with circulation) under Act of Congress, approved June 3d, 1864. Authorized capital $500,000. Paid up capital, $100,000. B. M Bulkell, President. C. W. Moore, Cashier. Collections of Notes and Accounts on the principal places in Idaho Territory promptly attended to. Exchange for Coin or Currency on this Bank can be purchased of Ladd & Tilton, Portland, Oregon.

NEVER TOO LATE TO DO GOOD.—Persons who heretofore have not bought their Clothing, Dry Goods, etc., of KOHN & FISHEL, can yet do so, as it is never too late to be convinced that at KOHN & FISHEL'S the most Fashionable Goods can be found, and at prices that defy competition. So, come one, come all, and each separately be convinced of the above facts.

Buchtel's Photograph Gallery is the only establishment in Oregon that is thoroughly prepared to do all the different styles of work in the art. Photographs from card to life size. The new cabinet cards, &c., do. Small pictures enlarged (colored in India ink—painted in water-colors or oil by Mrs S J Rumsey. Pictures that are fading can be reproduced in this way. All negatives taken in this gallery will be carefully preserved, and additional copies had. I have now on hand a very large collection of negatives, the names of which are recorded alphabetically in a book for that purpose that can be seen in the reception room.

MARRIED:

On Sunday evening, Oct 13th, at the house of Rev Mr. Atkinson of this city, Mr. Henry D. Paige, of Umatilla, to Miss Emma B Coffin, of Portland.

In this city, Oct. 15th, 1867, by Rev. G H. Atkinson, Mr Henry Jansen to Miss Mary Matheson, both of Portland.

DIED:

In East Portland, October 14th, 1867, L. E. Stone, Esq., aged 50 years.

The funeral services will take place from the late residence of the deceased to-day at 11 o'clock. The friends of the family are invited to attend.

The deceased was for many years a resident of Wisconsin and of Rock county in that State: he settled in Jamestown in 1836, and emigrated with his family to Oregon in 1864. He was a man of gentle manners, high intelligence and irreproachable integrity. For some months past he had been greatly reduced in health by an incurable chronic complaint. On Saturday last he was attacked with cholera morbus, his feeble constitution was unequal to the attack, and he passed away calmly after only two days' sickness," in the confidence of a certain faith, and in the comfort of a reasonable religious and holy hope.

W. H. S.

In this city, Oct. 15th, at 3 P. M., Susan Zeller, aged 1 year, 4 months and 8 days.

The funeral will take place from the corner of Front and Main streets. Friends are invited to attend.

NEW TO-DAY.

MISSING ARTICLES AT FAIRS.—The Board of Managers at our State Agricultural Society adopted a rule which was enforced at the late fair, prohibiting the affixing to articles, the names of exhibitors. It is claimed by many that the rule had become necessary, to prevent judges from deciding on the merits with bias toward or prejudice against, certain exhibitors. Such persons are of course confident that the rule works well. It would be interesting, however, to learn in how many cases the judges actually decided on the merits of the articles at the late fair, not knowing beforehand who were some or all the exhibitors. To us the rule seems a bad one; for several reasons. To make fairs useful they should bring out a full knowledge of how and where and under what circumstances the product was raised; to what treatment it had been subject; what the cost and what the profit on production; in short the judges should know all about everything connected with the article. The exhibitor is the proper, and in most cases the only, person to give such information. If no names are to be given and it be made a point to keep the judges in ignorance of the exhibitor, how are they to know any of the essential facts above indicated, and what good will come of their decision at last? The California Farmer, discussing this question just after the fair at Sacramento, said: "A great mistake is made by those who arrange the articles in our Hall of Exhibition at Fairs, by affixing numbers instead of owners' names. When numbers are appended instead of the name of owner, all the good which would result from discussing the merit of the articles with the owner, is lost—no one being able to hunt up the owners; and thus the object of our fair, and any good it might confer on the people is lost. In other States, and at all well conducted Fairs, the full name of the exhibitor and place of residence is recorded in full, and this should be the plan adopted hereafter." And so say we as to Oregon fairs.

WHO WOULD BE A "LOCAL"—AND WHO WOULDN'T.—Deserts have their oases; the most cheerless aspects have their pleasant views, the greatest evil is scarcely unmixed with some redeeming good; despair always leaves a little room for hope; and without intending to be irreverent, we may say that Hell cannot be such a place as to things exclude all pleasure. We believe that we know those to be true; our experience as a local reporter has taught us so. If man ever lives in Hell before death, we are sure he cannot do it, following any other calling than that of a local reporter. If there is any aspect of life more nearly utterly cheerless than another, the reporter certainly looks upon it every day. It would take too long to specify in what ten thousand particulars this is so; but if there is one local reporter in this world who denies it, we would suggest to travel round the world without a dead head ticket to enjoy the intense wonder which such a phenomenon would excite. But, as we said before, as evil can be quite evenly untwined with redeeming good. When the local reporter finds that he has a friend, one who appreciates him and his unthankful work and is magnanimous enough to acknowledge such appreciation, then the reporter finds a bright spot in his desert life; a little good to stand off against the great evil of his occupation; a little pleasure even in his Hell. We occasionally find such a friend, and "when found, we make a note on't." Our personal experience as a reporter was relieved yesterday by the receipt of a token of regard from our friend Jas. T. Wortley, of Oregon City, and hereafter, we flatter ourself, we shall keep under a little the flood, coffest and handsomest pair of blankets ever made on this coast. That's what's the matter!

PASSENGERS FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamship Sierra Nevada, Wm. Metzger, Commander, sailed at 6 o'clock last evening, for San Francisco, with the following list of passengers: F B Slaughter, Chas King, Louis Bridle, J Whitehead; J B Pratt, A Levy, Rev E Junger, Rev Chas Vary, Mrs J D'Dunn and child, Miss Scholl, M Dempster, Mrs Kenney and child, M Vogt, P Peck, Wm Fitzgerald, Mother-General Philomena, Sister Columbina, Miss E Palmer, Mother-General Amanah of Chantal, Miss Cecelia McQuade, Miss Annie McQuade, Jas Taylor, E Hodgkins, C Montague, Chas Reanig, W T Marshall, F M Nelson, W B Norman, E D Bankenstan, A Chamberlain, O D Reason and wife, Miss Redica, Wm G Ka, Henry Taylor, J C Severance and wife, Mrs Matthews, W Walker, Mrs A C Rigley and 2 children, W W Webber, Rev J Eckman, McSavage, Mrs H L Churchill, Maj L H Marshall, F A Leonard, Miss Dickinson, Wm Kee, W C Spencer, A H Morgan, J L Rogers and wife, F Stangerald, H L Hoyt, Mrs Hesketh, Mrs N Clemens, O K Fisher, wife and child, Miss Jennie Cuulick, Miss F McCausland, J W McCausland, Isaac May, Mrs Lane, Mrs Seale and dau., E T Reese, H M Beall, J J McWorthy, W H Decker, Mrs G Vogel, J D Hoover, B Thrall, F M Kimple, W H Sloan, D Bolting, G H Yates and wife, J W Davis, J M Smith, J Wolpaniel, S Vradenburg and 2 children, Jno Shea, O O'Reilly, Mrs E Cornett and child, H A Siegfried (Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Messenger) and 65 in the steerage.

FROM TILLAMOOK.—The schooner J. C. Champion, Quick, Master, arrived here during Monday night, with produce from Tillamook Bay. She left Tillamook heads October 1st; arrived at the Columbia bar October 4th and on the same day. She was delayed in the Columbia river ten days by calms and head winds. Her cargo consists of 25 bbls salmon, 85 kf bbls butter, 3 boxes cranberries and 2 cases household goods. Capt. Quick informs us that the fisheries on the bay are just getting under way, and are now taking salmon of the fall run in great numbers. His delay by the time he can get back, there will be not less than 200 or 300 barrels ready for shipment. The past season has been very favorable for harvesting and the settlers in the valley feel very much encouraged about the feasibility of raising grain. They have already put in more fall wheat than ever before sown in the valley.

TRIAL FOR MURDER.—The Circuit Court has been in session at the Dalles during this week, Judge Wilson presiding. A gentleman who came down yesterday informs us that the soldier, McIntyre, indicted for the murder of Marshal Keeler has had two trials. The first jury failed to agree and was discharged. At the time the gentleman left, yesterday morning, the second jury had been out for some time without being able to agree, and he thought they would probably be discharged last evening in case of a hopeless disagreement. The Court had disposed of all other business and was only holding to hear the verdict of this jury. It was thought an adjournment would take place last evening.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT—DEADY, JUSTICE.—Proceedings of Tuesday, Oct. 15th:

United States vs H W Davis, Robt. Pentland and Jas B. Stephens; motions to allow defendants Pentland and Steph to file separate answers allowed upon terms, and said defendants have until Monday the 21st to file answers.

United States vs H W Davis; jury trial waived; evidence heard by the court; cause argued and submitted. Court adjourned to Monday 21st inst.

FIRE ALARM.—There was a false alarm of fire, yesterday morning, on Washington street between First and Second. It grew out of seeing a column of dense smoke arising from the rear of Dr. See Yan's office. Some Chinamen were merely burning some rubbish, seeing the smoke of which, somebody thought that "where there was so much smoke there must be some fire," ran and rang the bell at No. 3's. The engines were out and so was the fire, before the engines got there.

FREIGHT FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The Sierra Nevada took away last evening the following list of freight for San Francisco: 8,137 qr sks flour, 220 sks potatoes, 864 bags wheat, 696 sks middlings, 177 gunnies flour, 100 bbls flour (in barrels), 24 bbls beef, 23 half bbls pork, 304 half bbls dried fruit, 3 half bbls eggs, 45 boxes do, 820 boxes fruit, 20 sacks mdse, 16 pkgs do, 7 trunks do, 10 bales wool, 10 cases bacon, 8 rolls leather, 26 dry hides, 5 coops fowls, 28 head of horses.

WHEAT STILL GOING UP.—Our telegraphic dispatches of last evening, from San Francisco, report wheat as having gone up from $2 40@2 55 on the day previous, to $2 60@2 75 ₩ 100 lbs. Holders were not anxious to sell for that price and were asking $2 75@3. In this city, yesterday, the price paid ran up to $1 20 ₩ bushel at one time. Several loads were disposed of at $1 15. The price, however, dropped back again to $1 10, at which it closed very firm.

WHITEMARSH FREIGHTS.—Arrived per steamer Alert Monday the 14th, 4,900 qr sks flour, 3 bales woolen good, 371 boxes apples, 1 bale m'dse, 8 pkgs do.

Yesterday, the Alert brought down 35 boxes eggs, 44 half bbls dried apples, 700 qr sks flour, 403 sks bran, 4 bales woolen goods, 1 case, organ, 2 horses, 324 sks middlings, 4 boxes, 43 boxes apples, 34 sks bacon, 16 half bbls, 3 trunks mdse, 4 cases and 43 boxes mdse.

ORATION.—Mr. F. S. Ostheim has accepted an invitation from the Hebrew Ladies' Benevolent Society, to deliver the oration at the opening of their ball on the evening of the 31st inst. We have not learned what will be the subject, further than it will relate to the particular occasion. The day preceding the ball is, we believe, an anniversary day of the Society.

CIRCUIT COURT AT HILLSBORO.—The Circuit Court for Washington county will begin its Fall term at Hillsboro on Monday next, Judge Shattuck presiding. For the accommodation of attorneys and others desiring to attend, Mr. Jamison will run an extra express coach on Monday as far as Hillsboro.

CARGO OF BRICKS FOR THE COLUMBIA RIVER.—The schooner Jenny Bell, of Astoria, sailed from this city yesterday, with a cargo of bricks from one of the brick yards on the river above here. She is bound for Astoria.

HORSES FOR CALIFORNIA.—Mr J B Lake of this city shipped on the Sierra Nevada, twenty eight horses, for the San Francisco market. They were mostly large and fine horses for draft.

TREASURE SHIPMENT.—Wells, Fargo & Co, for themselves and others, shipped per steamship Sierra Nevada, last evening, $100,000 in treasure.

TREASURE RECEIVED.—Wells, Fargo & Co received by the steamer yesterday, from the Upper Columbia, $15,000 in treasure.

THE CAUSE.—It has been ascertained that the demonstration on Saturday night was not owing to the news of the Democratic victories, but to the fact that Harman Bros. received on Saturday an immense stock of Clothing by the steamers, which they are selling at marvelously low prices.

A FORMER FACT.—Mr. I. Schwartz, opposite the New Columbia Hotel, advertises this morning, his extensive stock of new goods, per last steamer. Our friends can certainly find all the new styles at Mr Schwartz's store, and can buy them, too, at reduced rates.

NOTICE.—A Special Session of Ellison Encampment No 1, I. O. O. F. will be held on Thursday evening, October 17th, 1867. ED. F. ALBRIGHT, Scribe.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

A young man named Allen T. Park, who for the last two years has been engaged in driving a team for H J Cady, Esq, met with an accident on Wednesday morning, the 9th inst, a mile eleven o'clock, which cost him his life. The particulars of the accident, as we obtained them from Dr J W. Hunter, the attending physician, are as follows: The unfortunate man was driving a four-horse team, loaded with the running gear of a threshing machine, and in turning into a lane leading to Mr. Cady's premises, one of the hind wheels of the wagon struck against the gate post, the jar of which frightened the horses, causing them to jump forward. With this sudden movement the coupling of the wagon gave way, letting Mr Parks, who was riding in front of the wagon, fall to the ground. As he fell, he was struck by the "hounds" of the wagon on the back part of the head, and the whole base of his skull fractured. He also sustained severe injuries about the breast. Two or three men who had been aiding him in removing the machine, and who were near by, at once went to his assistance. On being taken up he was insensible, and supposed to be dying. On being removed to Mr. Cady's house, Dr. Hunter was immediately called, and after applying the proper restoratives he was restored to consciousness. On examination, Dr. H. found his head terribly injured, and also indications that he had sustained severe internal injuries. The unfortunate man lived until 3 o'clock Thursday morning, at which hour he breathed his last.

THE ORPHANS.

Mrs Cantonwine, mother of Mrs. Scott, the heroic woman who recently fell a victim to Indian barbarity, arrived here by Thursday's stage, bringing with her the two orphan children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Scott, with the particulars of whose murder on Burnt river our readers are already familiar. These children were seated in the wagon with their parents at the time of the Indian attack, but miraculously escaped injury. Their grandmother will now supply to them as far as she can the place of their natural protectors.

ANNEXATION CONVENTION.

At a meeting, composed of citizens from the counties of Walla Walla, Nez Perce, Idaho and Shoshone, called and held at Lewiston, I. T., on the 26th day of September, 1867, for the purpose of taking into consideration the propriety of memorializing Congress to annex the counties of Northern Idaho to Washington Territory, a unanimous expression, favorable to said annexation was had; and, on motion, a committee, consisting of Frank P. Dugan, of Walla Walla, S. S. Fenn, of Idaho county, W. W. Thayer and Wm. H. Hudson, of Shoshone county, were selected, and instructed to confer with the people of Washington Territory, and ascertain their views upon the proposed annexation. In order to procure an expression of the will of the people of the various counties of this Territory, thereon, the said committee respectfully invite delegates from the different counties, to meet in convention at Walla Walla City, on Wednesday, Oct. 30th, 1867, to take into consideration the proposed measure, and to adopt such means to secure the establishment of the object as they may deem proper. The Committee suggests that mass meetings be held in the various counties of the Territory, at an early day, and that such number of delegates as they may think proper to send, may be selected; and at the same time resolutions be adopted, expressive of the approbation or disapproval of the people to the proposed acquisition; and that in case of the inability of delegates to attend, such resolutions, duly certified, be sent to the Chairman of the proposed convention.

A man by the name of — Powett, a carpenter, met his death in a horrible manner, at Perkins' mill, on the 7th inst. The facts in the case are as follows: Powett had been engaged for the past week or so in hauling logs to the mill, and on Monday while on his way in return with a load, one of the wheels of the truck ran into a rut, throwing the weight of the log on that side. It now being necessary to shift it to the higher side, Powett's companions commenced rolling the log to the desired place, leaving him, in the meanwhile, on the lower side to "chunk." When they had got the log nearly up the "dog" pulled out, and unrestrained and without being properly "chucked," it rolled back, catching Powett, who was standing in a stooping posture, and flattening his skull. The men who were there at the time of the accident, say that he never spoke after the log rolled back. They were so horrified at the sight that they were powerless to act, and that when they did the log was so heavy that they were compelled to hitch the oxen to it and pull it off of the unfortunate man. The deceased was highly respected as a citizen and was looked upon by the community as a hard-working man. His untimely end is deplored by all who knew him. It is a sad bereavement for his wife, poor woman, and last Monday will be a mournful period in her life. She will, probably, never meet with a more eventful year during her existence than the last, having been made a wife, a mother and a widow in the short space of eleven months.

SUPPOSED GULF STREAM IN THE PACIFIC.—The San Francisco Times says:

Sea captains coming into this port from the Asiatic coast frequently report seeing discolored water, seaweed, floating barnacles, sea fowl, etc., indicating the proximity of land, or at least shoal water, and yet they fail to find land or soundings to correspond. The Centurion, lately arrived, makes such a report. These facts suggest the theory that the phenomena noticed is caused by a current setting from the Chinese coast north-eastward toward Alaska. They are observed in the course such a stream would take, and perhaps the discoloration of water, floating seaweed, etc., are carried into the open Northern Ocean by the Gulf Stream of the Pacific. In the absence of any better solution of the problem, we are inclined to accept this as the most rational and satisfactory.

TOO ATTENTIVE.—Jones was traveling with his wife and was so gallant in his behavior to his ora epon that madame became uneasy and remonstrated against his attentions as too demonstrative for public observation.

"The deuce," said Jones, "we're married, I suppose."

"Yes," said the lady, "but judging by your deportment, folks will think that we are not married!"

"Well, what of it?"

"Why, not much to you," said the careful dame; "you are a man, but we women have our characters to take care of."

The Montana Post says that scientific men were soon to leave Helena to visit the headwaters of the Yellowstone. It is said that somewhere up there the whole body of that river flows over a precipice fifteen hundred feet perpendicular, and below is a large island composed of small burning volcanoes, hot springs, and so on. We shall publish the result of that expedition when it comes to hand.

FITZ JOHN PORTER.—President Lincoln said the severest thing about Fitz John Porter that he ever uttered against any public officer. When the sentence of the Court-martial was placed before him for his approval, he signed it with alacrity, and remarked; "I wish the Court-martial had ordered him to be shot!"

We have but little confidence in the trumpet tongued statements of the proprietors of advertised medicines generally, but we are forced to concur in the opinion, uniformly expressed by all who have used PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER, that it is a very valuable article, and one that it would be well for every household to have at hand, in case of bruises, scalds, burns, diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera, fever and ague, and the host of diseases, external and internal, which it is adapted to cure or alleviate. No article of medicine ever attained to such unbounded popularity and extensive diffusion. It has penetrated to every part, even the most remote, of the known world, bearing with it its healing influences more potent than those of the spices of "Araby the blest." We are informed by our principal druggists, that they sell more of this article for exportation than any or all others, and that the demand is constantly increasing.—Salem Observer.

DR. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.—The operation of this palatable remedy upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its control and invigorating properties, and it is recommended to mothers, enfeebled by the cares and duties of maternity, as the safest and best tonic they can probably use. In all the crisis of female life it will be found eminently useful, and elderly persons will derive much more benefit from it than from ordinary stimulants.—Sold by all Druggists and dealers everywhere.

Autumn

No sound but the beechnuts falling,
Through the green and the yellow leaves,
And the rainy west wind calling
The swallows from the eaves
No failing trees are shedding
Their golden splendor yet;
But a sunset gleam is spreading,
That seems like a regret.

And the crimson breasted birdie
Sings his sweet funeral hymn
On the oak tree grim and sturdy,
In the twilight gathering dim
Death comes to pomp and glory,
They fade—the sunny hours
And cold is story
Pass like the Summer flowers.

The Hermit's Year.

It was a difficulty, most men will admit Falling back on the governor was about as useful as falling back upon a heap of stones. He had not even an old aunt, nor a godmother, and though poison reads very well under the careful manage ment of Miss Braddon, there wasn't anybody to poison, excepting his intended father-in-law. The wine business had a very good mail phaeton, which rattled past his window with a pair of high stepping cobs; and city life generally had assumed a better appearance upon the arrival of an East End millionaire and his wife, in a particularly neat barouche, two doors off his own house Speculation is speculation, whether on Epsom Downs or in Capel Court, and it was not till his unlucky walk in the Row, that the possibility of such an outrage on his previous respectability as a lucky wager suggested itself to his mind.

Now Charlie was not a gambler; nor vicious in any way. He wasn't in debt, nor gluttonous, nor a wine-bibber, nor avaricious, but he sadly wanted ten thousand pounds at this moment; and he swore if he got it that he'd make good use of it He never had more than a five pound note in his life at a time; and five-pound notes were no use to him now unless he put twenty of them together. If he wanted to preserve the good resolutions too, which, in a nation of gamblers, did him infinite credit, he was most unfortunate, not only in his day, but in the companions he met with. As he sauntered along the day before the Derby, and the one topic of conversation from one end of the Row to the other.

"Pleudit's a dead un."

"He'll come to the post for a hundred even."

"Done with you, Jonks," and the two gentlemen booked it.

"They say Wroughton had a sore back, when Van Ambugh beat him at Bath."

"I do not care what Wroughton has, he must be better than Vauban by that running."

"Well, then, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll lay you a thousand to a hundred about Van, and you shall lay me five to two about the Duke's horse."

"Done" and "done."

"Nobbler, old boy, what's the best outsider?"

"What? to lay against, or to back?" says Nobbler.

"O, to back, of course. I want to lay a tenner. I've only one bet."

"Why there's Fits. Iran, or the Moor, or Roquefort," says Nobbler, mentioning two or three more, with the prices.

"Why not Hermit, Chaplin's horse"

"Ha, ha, ha," roars Nobbler; "he's as good as bolted. Here, I'll lay you five hundred to five." And the price so frightened Charlie, that he went farther on.

Beneath the wide-spreading beech, almost opposite to William street, watching the equestrians and pedestrians in the Row, not much thinned (for Tuesday at Epsom, after all, is only meant for the very rich and the very low) sat four young men of what we call in our intense snobism the upper ten, like decem centuries, short four ten thousand, and as Charlie Courtland approached the chair, the ominous number would come into his head. Two of the four he knew, and one of the two was Peter Mayfair.

"And how do you know he broke a blood-vessel?" said one.

"His owner had a telegram," replied a second.

"How do you know?" says a third.

"Because I saw it," rejoins Number Two "and seeing is believing."

"How do you know the owner didn't send it himself?" says Peter, upon which there was a dead silence for a minute or two, and then one of the three, who manifestly had been studying the penny a-liners, and who, consequently, could not know much about it, ventured to state his conviction that "he never broke a blood vessel at all, but was doing hard work up to the moment, and was at that time at Epsom, ready to start and win if he could, only it was well known that he couldn't stay. Why wasn't he at forty to one instead of nine, if he was all wrong?"

"Now, Courtland, now's your time! take ten thousand to one," cries Bookham.

"Don't do anything of the sort, Charlie," says Peter Mayfair; "I've done your business for you, you're going to stand a long shot. I told you I'd something good, and I'm going to give a sign."

"Is it very good, Peter? If so, let me have fifty of it."

"It's either very good or very bad indeed, and I don't mean to part with any more until to-morrow. There, Charlie, there's your hundred gone," saying which he handed him a slip out of his betting book, on which was written ten thousand to one hundred against Hermit. "Now you may go and have a quiet night, and mind you bring lots of coats to-morrow, for if it's like this on the Downs you'll want something stronger than champagne and plover's eggs to keep you warm."

Edith Maitland, while her lover was driven to desperate courses by her father's determination, behaved with as much discretion as is seemly in a lady so situated. She neither tore her hair nor her petticoats while she was left at home, but she did think very seriously of her affairs, for she knew her father to be one of those men who are [illegible] to be as good as their word. Now Mr. Maitland was a disagreeable character, and Edith [illegible] amounted to some obliquity of [illegible] rather stubborn determination not to [illegible] marry at table, an indulgence to [illegible] and a disinclination for an opera box on [illegible] night. She intended, however, to some [illegible] as it suited her, to encourage Charlie as a [illegible] visitor, to refuse any good offers that might fall in her way, and to take the thing up with a rather high hand when the first blush of their little difference was over.

She had no doubt, mentally, that the thing would come right. She knew nothing about Charlie's resources, but she thought he looked quite a ten thousand pound man, and was sure he'd get the money somehow or other, not this year, perhaps, but next, or, at most, the one after that. What is the use of a crack regiment, and a large acquaintance, if it was not to end happily at last?" All romances did end happily, and was real life worse than fiction? Impossible! and she went to bed on Tuesday, and fell asleep, thinking of Charlie.

The insane old Scotchman who had created all this hubbub, because he would not let the girl marry a sort of better-class of casual, but an absolute pauper, but, as he thought, very near it, went away from his own home on Wednesday morning with a very bad cup of tea, and a general feeling that he was all in the wrong for the present. Edith had only eaten one piece of dry toast, without butter (while he was at home), and had declined talking at breakfast, though he began on Scotch Reform and the Compound Householder. These interesting subjects having been indulged in without contradiction or assent, he got tired of talking, and walked off to the city.

Of course he knew nothing about the Derby—the only man in London who did not. He was a little surprised to see so many empty barouches posting about the squares and streets, and to find the Hansom cabs and the harness quite clean, all going one way, and resolutely declining to accept of him as a fare. At last he took a four-wheeler, and found himself at his office, a snug, quiet, comfortable, turkey-carpet looking place, with newspapers airing at a good fire, and setting at defiance the sleet and snow which was falling outside.

Presently his clerk came in and stirred up the fire to concert pitch. "Mr. Stephenson come yet?"

"No, sir, not yet," said Jobson, "there are two notes on your table, sir," and Jobson laughed, for he had heard of Derbies, though he never spent his holidays in such pursuits. "One of 'em looks like Mr. Stephenson's writing, sir, and the other was left by Mr. Fulthrope's servant half an hour ago"

"Dear me! What an extraordinary thing? Mr. Stephenson was so bad with toothache last night that he fears he must absent himself to day, and here's Mr. Fulthrope obliged to go into the country to see a relative who is not expected to live, but will be sure to be back again to-night." The gentleman with the toothache was consoling the one with the dying relative, and as they were traveling toward Epsom in a Hansom cab, it may be supposed that, if still alive, it was thereabouts that she lived.

Everybody that reads Temple Bar knows all about the Derby, the sleet, the snow, the wind, and the silence of astonishment which greeted Hermit as the winner. The prophets prophesied falsely, and after all was over, this nonsense that was written about condition, appearance, shape, pace, would it not fill several volumes? All we have to do is with Charlie's comrades, when he saw Vauban give way, and Marksman collared by a lad in rose colored jacket, whose legs hung as they should hang down a saddle, who rode his horse brilliantly, and who simply outpaced Marksman in the last four strides There he sat, stupefied at first, then an unobserved spectator in the next box, standing near him as the numbers went up, said "Hermit after all" Then, when he recalled all the mighty things that Mr Chaplain and Captain Machell and Daley, between them, had offected for him, his throat filled nearly to bursting, and his eyes with to ers. Then he wondered what he ought to do, and rushed down to the front to discharge his overburdened feelings into the ear of somebody on the drag Having crossed the course with a curious sensation, akin to the beginning of typhus fever, a burning thirst, a sort of vertigo, and bloodshot eyes, he came in due time to the drag, and the first sight did more to restoring him to himself than anything else There was Peter eating with much deliberation from a large plateful of pigeon pie, and throwing the bones, with an exquisite sense of the ludicrous, into the woolly wig of an Ethiopian serenader Without inconveniencing himself, when he caught sight of Charlie, all he said was, "Come up here, Charlie, we've done well to day. Five and twenty thousand, and ten to you, that's five and thirty, let's hope we may be paid Now come up and drink" And it's a curious fact in physiology, that the possibility of not getting the money restored Charlie Courtland to his senses, and a tone to his stomach.

Peter drove a very jovial coachful home again; and that he had not exceeded may be surmised by the fact that he only turned over, and that very gently, one donkey-cart by the way I think if I suddenly found myself on a drag, with the prospect of finding thirty-five thousand pounds at the end of the journey, I should upset all the costermongers' carts on the road

The week passed as such weeks do pass; the bonfires of Thursday were cleared up in time for the Oaks on Friday, and as Saturday came opportunely between that and Sunday, the following Monday found everybody all right again. Everybody that is, that had nothing to do with the setting, of all that I can say is, that certain scribblers imagine that they pay a great compliment to the aristocracy of England, when they notify the fact that a nobleman, having lost a very large sum of money, pays it This is one of those left-handed compliments, which it scarcely comprehensible to anybody but Lord Dundreary That noble lord, and other noble lords and gentlemen, paid their debts of honor, as might naturally be expected, and the consequence was that on Monday afternoon Peter Mayfair was once more (for he had had his ups and downs) a capitalist, and Charlie Courtland was a ten thousand pounds man.

I dare say men think nothing of carrying ten thousand pounds about in their pockets, but that has never occurred to me, nor had it to Charlie, and with all those masses of silver paper, those perishable flimsies, which felt as if they meant flying away, he was rather uncomfortable. I suppose that delicate texture, characteristic of bank notes, is metaphorical of easy decay. Such a thing never could have been meant to keep, and their value may be estimated by the length of time such things have existence. When Charlie Courtland got his he paid the greatest respect to the first few hundreds, and then began cramming the rest into his breeches pocket, as others had done before him

The first place he went to, from Tattersall's, was to Mr. Maitland's house, in Chester street, not far to go. His heart was as full as his pockets, and he had had great difficulty in keeping away from the street till he could satisfy all demands.

"It was about five in the afternoon, and when he reached the house the carriage was at the door.

"Is Mr. Maitland at home?"

"Miss Maitland is, sir; but I don't know whether master is come in or not."

"I'd rather see Mr. Maitland, if possible," which seemed odd to James, but no ways unreasonable considering the knowledge of affairs which had reached the servants' hall.

Mr. Maitland was at home, and, though glad enough to see Charlie, could not help expressing his surprise; the conversation opened upon the weather, then it got to the Reform Bill, and then to the weather again; at last Mr. Maitland mentioned the engagement with his daughter.

"Ah! just so, Mr. Maitland. You have been acquainted with my wishes. I fear I was presumptuous; but—"

"Not at all, Charlie; but you know my sentiments on the subject. There is nobody I esteem more. It would have been my greatest pleasure to have welcomed you as my son-in-law, and, let me say so at once, will be so still, whenever you can present yourself in circumstances which would justify—"

"Yes, Mr. Maitland, I know, that is, I believe I was foolish to have said or thought so little of the most important of all objects; but fortune—that is a fortunate—a speculation, I may call it—has placed ten thousand pounds at my disposal, independently of my commission, and I am come to lay it at Miss Maitland's feet."

During this speech the old gentleman's gooseberry eyes had expressed as much as they could express of anything, we may call it astonishment. And when he recovered his breath sufficiently to speak, he said, or rather gasped, "And the security is good, my dear Charlie, for let me tell you, in the mercantile world there are scoundrels as great to be met with as on the turf itself. The security, my dear boy, what is this speculation of yours?"

Charlie was not a man of business, exactly, but he seems to have understood human nature; for he immediately spread upon the table, before the astonished gaze of old Maitland, the proceeds of Hermit's year. They didn't stay to count them, but in a few seconds, having assured the old gentleman that that was the amount of the notes on the table, he was ushered into the drawing-room to make his own explanation for his sudden appearance; and it was not till four days afterwards that the old gentleman recollected that he had not ascertained the nature of so effective a speculation.

"Mercantile, Charlie, but of what particular kind?"

"Well, horseflesh, sir, to tell you the truth."

"Horseflesh! was it, really! Now I refuse to have anything to do with that very thing, though we've had a French company over here for weeks before the Exhibition, arranging for the business. And I've since heard that the consumption in various forms is prodigious."

"Prodigious!" repeated Charlie, mightily tickled at the blunder, but preserving his gravity. "Yes, and do you know, there's a friend of mine in Paris, rather agwn, who says, that's the only city in the world where they put the carts before the horse."

They're going to be married on the 24th of June; but Charlie declines taking any more shares in the Horseflesh Company. He doesn't expect such a pull out of a dead one again in his life.—Temple Bar.

LOCAL ISSUES IN MAINE.—The Boston Transcript, commenting on the Maine election, says:

Local issues have damaged the dominant party to a greater extent than was anticipated. The Republican nominee for Governor is one of the most popular men in the State, yet the vote shows how severe has been the task to sustain him under the obnoxious legislation of last winter. General Chamberlin's majority is reduced to one half from 1865, and if the opponents of the ridiculous prohibitory enactments which disgrace the statute books of Maine had been better organized, we fear the result would have been disastrous to the loyal cause. The Temperance fanatics of the "Pine Tree State" have therefore taken advantage of the overwhelming Republican majorities, to enact law after law in their interest, without reference to the general welfare of the Republicans throughout the Union, or the effect of such legislation upon their morals at home. This election admonishes the managers of the Union party of the danger of persistence in such a policy, even in States soundest upon all important national questions.
